Arabia's marks

1. The most ancient of Arabia's marks was stamped in the body. Used in 1874-1890. Above or below the mark, often a letter to indicate the type of body.

2. Alternative to the first factory mark also stamped in the body. Beside the mark, a letter to indicate the body, and from 1899 on, numeral code giving the year and month of manufacture. In use 1874-1930.

3. One of the earliest marks (1874-82), stamped in the body. Not found on any article.

4. The first coloured mark (1880-1910). Black, blue or green.

5. Mark stamped in the body, only used for some plates (1880-90).

6. Coloured mark 1890-1910).

7. Coloured mark, rarely found today (1890-1910).

8. Coloured mark, rarely found today (1890-1910).

9. Coloured mark for dinner sets and staple goods (1878-1910). Also in exports. Black, green, blue, lilac or the colour of the pattern. In the centre, the coat-of-arms of Finland.

10. Coloured mark, rarely found today, and used for export goods. Cobalt, black, blue, green, lilac or the colour of the pattern. 1880-1910.

11. Coloured mark for dinner sets and staple goods. 1893-1917.

12. Coloured or stamped mark rarely found today. Opak was a fine earthenware body of Arabia. 1893-1907.

13. Mark from 1897-1907, mostly stamped in the body, occasionally coloured.

14. Mark stamped in the body, with additional numeral combinations. 1897-1907.

15. Mark from 1900-1920, generally coloured, blue, black or brown.

16. Coloured mark (1900-1920). It remains a mystery why two slightly different marks were used at the same time.

17. Export mark (1917-1927). Black, blue or gold.

18. Coloured mark adopted in 1917 after Arabia had passed into Finnish ownership. In use until 1927. Black, blue, brown, cobalt or gold.
